"THE DAILY" ASKS FOR HELP; THE SCHOOL RESPONDS

Without intention of giving voice to private criticism of the number of money raising schemes sponsored in the Cameron Public Schools, The Herald at the same time feels at liberty to call the attention of the patrons to the latest officially sponsored movement through the student body.

The Spanish Club instructor with the consent of the Superintendent has engaged 40 students of the Spanish Class to assist a private enterprise, a local daily newspaper, to succeed in business. Putting over a daily newspaper in a small town is next to impossible. Not being able, apparently, to sell the citizenship on the idea, within its own organization, the aid of the Public Schools is sought.

That aid was forthcoming. Superintendent Perrin said Wednesday he had indorsed the deal and Marvin Franklyn, Spanish Teacher, is to direct the circulation campaign for the Cameron Daily Enterprise.

The aid thus brought to the daily will lend a prestige it otherwise could not muster. Its a new idea and may spread.

I asked a business man this morning what he thought of the School's entry into private business, in so far as its influence may lead in matters of this kind, and he immediately said he thought some money might be made if the Home Economics class could be induced to sell food for his store in the Homes of Cameron school patrons. "What about your competitor who pays taxes?" I asked. "Well, that would be for him to take on the chin."

The Herald has been extraordinarily liberal in space allotments to the schools and all activities. It feels the School's entry into an alliance to aid its competitors is unfair and should be stopped by the Board of Trustees. The Herald does not charge the purpose is to be partisan in this matter, but it does charge that such a policy is assailable from many standpoints and can result only in disruption of many co-operative ties and cause even greater friction than now already exists among our people over the administration of the school.

The Herald is not unmindful of the reprisals that will be forthcoming. That doesn't matter. The Herald has been here a long time, maybe as long as the school. Its record of co-operation cannot be assailed. If ambition rides high enough to inject the schools into private business, by design, or lack of thought, there will be no way to turn back the certain disaster of reckoning.

WOUNDS INDICATE FOUL PLAY OR BAD SURGERY

Stab wounds or crude surgery appeared the more plausible explanation of how a middle aged white man whose body was found in the alley at the north entrance of the Herald building on the morning of August 3rd, came to his death.

The man died following crude surgery outside a hospital or was the victim of a human butcher. Whether an autopsy was performed could not be ascertained but there are numerous incisions in the stomach. The body apparently had not been buried. The report does not state definitely the body was embalmed. It is certain to have been hidden away in a building loft or under a floor.

After much delay and red tape The Herald has obtained a detailed report from the Department of Public Safety in Austin, giving conclusions in the case. The information is contained in a letter from M. T. Gonzaullus, Chief of the Bureau of Intelligence and Crime Detection in the Department, to Emory B. Camp, criminal district attorney.

Several conclusions are admissable. The man may been killed in a fight, or may have died from an operation crudely performed. He may also have been murdered in secret and the body hidden to cover up the crime. In that case there would be explana-

Shrubs at the Front Door

By MARIE MERTZ

San Garbiel 4-H Club

We use the front door or entrance of our home to welcome our friends. To please them and have them come often we need something at this entrance to attract them, and shrubs serve best for the needed attraction.

The lines of the steps are softened and made more inviting if framed by a low spreading shrub like the coral berry, lantana, pfitzer, or jumping juniper. These shrubs look especially well at the doorsteps when the house is framed in the back by such shrubs as the Japanese Legustrum, Cherry Laurel, Vitex, Senisa, or wild peach.

Small shrubs planted around the house keep it from looking so bare, and make it fit in with the lawn better. Shrubs such as coralberry, bridal wreath, amur river, privet, Roman Myrtle, Firethorn, and abelia are good to use for this purpose. A few taller shrubs, Golden Bell, Senisa, Crape Myrtle, or Salt Cedar may be placed at the corners or between windows, but remember when you use shrubs in front of windows, use only the low types because you want to use the window to see out of.

Shrubs around the house should be planted about three feet from the house and about three feet apart.

NEXT WEEK: "How and When to Plant Shrubs."

A mounted display of all the leading grasses will be made by the boys, it was said. ## Interest Mounts In Gas Photo Contest Here

"See the pretty birdie," time worn slogan of photographers, is no help at all in catching the glowing personality of a radiant gas heater, declare prospective entrants in Lone Star Gas System's ten-week contest for amateur photographers.

Interested camera fans are already lining up pictures of gas heating equipment with which they hope to capture the ten $10 prizes which will be awarded each week by the gas company in its contest which will open October 11 and close December 18. They are taking their cue on the type of picture wanted from the company's newspaper advertisements, one of which appears in this issue, and from a folder on the contest furnished by the gas companies participating in the contest. These include Community Natural Gas Co., Lone Star Gas Co.,' The Dallas Gas Co., County Gas Go., and the Texas Cities Gas Co. In addition to the weekly prizes of $10 for ten best pictures, at the close of the contest the gas system will award grand prizes of $100, $75, $50 and $25 for the four best pictures submitted during the entire ten-week period.

"I've had several people ask me whether a picture of a living room would be better than a bedroom showing gas heating equipment," said the district manager of the gas company in talking about the contest. "That is something each contestant will have to decide for himself, because as far as the company is concerned a picture of any room in the house is acceptable if it shows gas heating equipment.

"What we hope to obtain through the contest are some good, clear pictures showing various types of gas heating equipment used in homes of this section. Customers who come to our display floors to buy heating equipment find it difficult to visualize just how the appliance they are considering will fit into their home. With the wide selection of photographs we hope to receive during the contest, we can show them that in addition to furnishing a comfortable, healthy heat througout the house, modern gas heating equipment is available in styles varied enough to fit into any decorative plan."

MEEKS

stress was placed on the death penalty scruple. The defense has shown by its questioning of the veniremen that it will ask for an acquital on a strong plea of self defense.

Jurors chosen for this case were. L. S. Svetlik, Buckholts; E. C. Durnie, Curry; Gus Galler, San Gabriel; O. F. Luetge, San Gabriel; Floyd Hargrove, Sharp; W. A. Smith, Milano; A. C. Towery, Rockdale. Sam Graham, Sharp; Frank Raley, Briary; B. M. Jennings, Davilla; W. L. McMillan, Buckholts.

Two defense witnesses Tuesday were: Buddy Keith and Mrs. Sallie Keith, mother in law to the man on trial and also to the man who Meeks is charged with killing.

They testified a short time before the shooting, Kirk called to the Keith home stating that he was going to kill John Meeks and Ruby Meeks (Johns wife) and beat hell out of Sally (Kirks wife.) Later Mr. and Mrs. John Meeks and Mrs. Kirk who had been driving, came up to the Keith home and the shooting followed. Buddy Keith said both men shot almost simultaneously, and that after Kirk fell on the ground, he (Keith) grabbed Meeks gun as he was beating Kirk on the head.

The Meeks gun was presented in court with dried blood on it and the butt gone. The broken pieces of the gun butt were also produced, being picked up off the ground by District Attorney Emory B. Camp and Buddy Keith, the morning after the shooting, evidence showed.

Mrs. John Meeks, partially deaf was placed on the stand. She testified that while she and her husband and her sister, Mrs. Kirk were riding they passed the home of Mrs. Kirk's estranged husband and that Mrs. Kirk hollered, "hello Charlie, you ——." "I put my hand over Mrs. Kirk's mouth and told her that she should not do those things as it might cause trouble," Mrs. Meeks stated.

The defendant was placed on the stand at 4 p. m., and was questioned only 35 minutes.

Meeks Tells Story

Meeks testified as he drove up to the Keith home he was not expecting any trouble and that he and his brother in law, Charlie Kirk had never had any previous trouble. "As we drove up to the Keith home, Kirk also drove up and hollered "can't you hear me telling you to stop that car, you ——." I stopped and Kirk got out of his car cursing and saying, "I told you not to interfere with my affair" and then "Kirk reached and got his gun and fired, firing a third shot before I could get out of my car and start firing." Meeks stated.

Witnesses in the case were: Jack Owings, Dr. C. G. Swift, John Eanes, Mrs. Vada Walters, Charlie Walzel Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fikes, Constable B. F. Bailey, Mrs. Sallie Keith, Mrs. John Meeks Buddy Keith, Mrs. Charlie Kirk.

Dr. C. G. Swift, was present at the inquest held for Charlie Kirk. He testified that Kirk had four bullet wounds in the front part of his body, which pierced the lungs and heart, being mortal wounds, and that the skull was also fractured, with lacerations of the scalp over ear and temple, and wounds on the head appeared to have been caused by a blunt object.

Kirk was slain in a night gun battle at a house one block south of the Santa Fe rails near the mill of the Cameron Cotton Oil Company. It was around 11 p. m. and the street was deserted save two automibiles, one stopping at the house and the other coming to a stop in the street. Guns suddenly began to blaze and then all was quiet. Officers reporting at the scene of the shooting found Meeks sitting in his car bleeding from a broken leg. He had been shot three times, all bullets taking effect in the right leg.

The men had settled their quarrel in the fashion of the Old West.

Kirk Lay In Street

Kirk lay face down in the street near his own car with a 44 callibre pistol in his hand. Four bullets had pierced his body. One bullet pierced the neck from the right side, one in the center of the chest, another through the right hip and a fourth through the right side of the abdomen. Taken from the street a short time after the firing had ceased Kirk was dead before the ambulance reached the hospital.

Officers turned over to Criminal District Attorney Camp a 45 callibre Colt revolver from which six shells had been fired. After Kirk was shot down Meeks was said to have beat him about the head. The revolver was bloody, its handle plates and cylinder missing. The trigger guard was torn loose and warped.

Five shells had been fired from the 44 callibre Colt carried by Kirk. Two bullet holes were found in Kirk's car.

The men shot it out in the street near the Keith home. Mrs. Kirk, estranged wife of the dead man, was residing temporarily with her parents. Mrs. Meeks is a sister of Mrs. Kirk. In company with John Meeks they had attended a dance and were returning to the Keith home, driving up to the front gate, parking the car. Kirk drove up a few minutes later, stopping his car a short distance from the Meeks machine. Buddy Keith, brother of Mrs. Meeks and Mrs. Kirk, said he heard Kirk say: "You have been meddling with my affairs too much." The shooting followed.

Kirk is said to have stepped from his car, leaving the weel and going to the rear of it as Meeks got out to meet him. The cars were parked in a position that left the Meeks machine free of the range of gun fire. Judging from the wound inflicted in the right leg of Meeks it is believed that Kirk fired three shots after he had fallen to the ground. Apparently two shots fired at Meeks went wild. Two shots fired by Meeks went into the Kirk car. Kirk was alone.

Testimony in the case began Tuesday morning at 9:35 o'clock.

Widow Testifies

Mrs. Charlie Kirk, who is a sister in law to the defendant by marriage, was the first state witness.

The shooting occured at the home of Mrs. Sallie Keith, mother to Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. Meeks. Mrs. Kirk testified that she had been making her home with her mother since she and her husband had separated and that on the night of the killing, she and Mr. and Mrs. John Meeks had been riding and as they drove up to their mother's home, her husband, Charlie Kirk also drove up and hollered "Stop that car," and as Kirk got out of the car he said, "I told you not to interfere with may affairs." Mrs. Kirk further testified that Meeks drew his gun from his shirt bosom and fired. My husband staggered toward the Meeks car and John Meeks fired again. My husband Charlie did not have a gun in his hand at the time John Meeks fired," Mrs. Kirk said.

Had Seperated

J. W. Mercer, representing the defense, asked Mrs. Kirk why she and her hubsand were not living together to which Mrs. Kirk replied that her husband drank and quarreled a lot. She admitted that her husband carried a gun and that her brother in law, John Meeks always carried a gun."

"Mrs. Kirk, don't you feel that you were the cause of this disturbance and of your husband getting killed and maybe by putting John Meeks on the spot you can ease the tension on yourself a little bit?" Defense lawyer Mercer asked. To this question, Mrs. Kirk answered "No" with emphasis.

Planned Reconciliation

Mrs. Kirk stated that although she and her husband were separated that he paid the house rent and grocery bill of her mother with whom she made her home during the separation. "Charlie and I were going back together," Mrs. Kirk said.

The defendant's mother sat near her son in the court room. She speaks only a few words of English.

Juror Ill

Marvin Petty of Sharp, one of the jurors accepted on the case Monday afternoon became ill Monday night and was excused. Two jurors were selected on Tuesday morning, completing the jury, which is as follows:

L. S. Svetlik, Buckholts; E. C. Durnie, Curry; Gus Galler, San Gabriel; O. F. Luetge, San Gabriel. Floyd Hargrove, Sharp; W. A. Smith, Milano; A. C. Towery, Rockdale. Sam Graham, Sharp; Frank Raley, Briary; B. M. Jennings, Davilla. W. L. McMillan, Buckholts.

BODY

tion of why no burial was made. There is a bare possibility that the man died from a crudely performed operation or either of the above causes and the body placed in hiding to escape expenses of burial. Certainly no record was ever made of the death.

Still a Mystery

Why it was placed in the alley seems as much of a mystery as the murder itself. Officers say the head was removed to keep down identification, no doubt being cut off the night it was taken from its secret place of hiding and left in the alley.

Pieces of newspapers were identified. There are several fragments of the Cameron Enterprise, one of September and one of October, dates not shown, and one from a copy issued in 1921. There is a fragment of a German newspaper, one of the New York Times; several Houston Chronicle and one appearing to be that of Temple Telegram. A 1928 magazine date is shown.

Lone Wolf Writes

The letter in part from Mr. Gonzaullus, is as follows:

"On August 4, 1937, R. M. Kennedy, sheriff of Milam County, delivered to me at the Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory of the Department of Public Safety, State of Texas, at Camp Mabry, Austin, Texas, one paste board box containing the body of a dead person and stated the same was found in an alley of the business section of Cameron on August 3, 1937. Sheriff Kennedy requested a complete examination of same for the purpose of ascertaining all information possible regarding the dead person.

"On August 5, 1937 I received a letter from you under date of August 4, 1937 also requesting a complete examination of this dead person, and determine if possible the sex, race, age, length of time dead, cause of death and other pertinent facts.

Nest In Body

"We found a large rats nest inside of this body, said nest contained thousands of pieces of newspapers and magazines, cloth, oak leaves, corn shucks, pecan shells and rat manure. Most of these specimens were very small, and no information of value was secured from them. Therefore they were destroyed. However, all specimens of value were retained and herewith attached, which are self explanatory. You will note presence of oak leaves, corn shucks and pecan shells, which would indicate that the body had been concealed in some dry place in the country or in a small town. The presence of an extremely large amount of rat manure would indicate that the rat's nest has been in existence over a long period of time, and it is a known fact that a rat will not build his nest inside of a body until same is completely dried out. You will also note that the dates on the newspapers are over a period from 1914 to 1930, that these papers are in and out of state papers. However, most of these papers indicated that they were from Cameron. You will also note that one piece of paper is printed in German.

Attached hereto and marked exhibit A you will find a photograph of this body.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

There will be no service Sunday, October 10th, as Rev. J. P. Love will be in attendance at the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in Cincinnatti.

Friends of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who were twice snubbed recently by the failure of the Duke and Duchess of Kent to visit them as expected, are furious. They remind the world that the Duchess of Kent, although born a Greek princess, gave testimonials for cold cream and worked as a mannequin in Paris before the youngest British duke married her. So why should she high-hat Wally?

JIM FERGUSON

THE LEGISLATURE

(Editor's note: This article is published as a news item and represents the personal view of Mr. Ferguson only.)

The called session of the 45th legislature has entered upon its second week.

Nothing of importance was done other than the work of standing committees. Already there is evidence of rising controversy between the House and Senate. The House seems willing to meet the Governor half way in his request for $15,000,000 (millions) in new or additional taxes, while the Senate seems set against any new taxes of any kind. Senator Holbrook's reply to the Governor's message was a strong plea for governmental economy and has greatly encouraed the majority of the Senate and has had a telling effect on a great number of the House. The feeble attempts of the Governor's floor leaders, Graves in the House and Westerfeld in the Senate to answer Senator Holbrook was very disappointing to the Governor and his friends in both Houses.

I have interviewed some 125 members of the House and Senate, and they unhesitatingly announce their opposition to the levy of any new taxes. They evidently have heard some positive discussion by the folks back home since the regular session and they appear fully determined to stand for a rigid economy policy.

Based on these expressions from legislators and conferences with many people recently visiting Austin from many parts of the state, I believe the people are more aroused over the tax issue than they have been since the carpet bag days following the Civil War.

While it is hard to make proof of actual corruption in the appropriation of public money, yet the amount is growing so fast that the people know in their own minds that so much money is being wasted and taxes are growing so fast that there is bound to be corruption somewhere.

* * *

When I see every day here in Austin such an army of people pretending to work only a few hours a day and what they do of so little service to anybody, and I think of our farmer friends in the country and our small places being taxed to pay them by extravagant legislation, my patriotism keeps slipping every day, notwithstanding my desire to keep loyal to my country.

I talk to many people and I find them of the same mind and feeling. History records no exception to the rule that in the history of all nations high taxes have destroyed all countries, and there is evidence that the same cause is working to destroy our country. Nobody believes now that our country is on a sound basis. The value of all property is tottering and the hope of business success is in the minds of only a few people.

The land bank and the loan companies are taking over the farms and ranches of the country, and the commercial banks no longer believe in the people, and they no longer extend credit only on pawn broker values and security.

It is, therefore, no wonder that the Texas legilslature is opposed to the levy of more taxes on a struggling people. Old Alcalde Roberts said that the only way to retrench is just retrench and talk about it afterwards. It appears that the Texas legislature has made up its mind to do the same thing.

I do not look for the legislature to complete its labors in 30 days. There are too many tax spending influences at work to contend with a hope to get through with in 30 days. There are too many people with a personal grudge, to vent who want to high jack some particular business or industry so they can have more money to waste. Some of them have a sulphur grudge, some have an oil grudge, some have a gas grudge, some have a utility grudge, and they want to stick the tax dagger deep into every business, not knowing that every time the tax rate is raised on any business the rate to the consuming people is raised to cover the tax. Invariably Jones pays the frieght. But it takes more than thirty days to drill it into some people's head.
